

Auto Product Launch

Client Need: The consumer lending division of a regional bank, in consideration of entrance into auto finance, was looking to understand the current market conditions.

Solution: BenchMark performed an analysis of market characteristics and competitive activities within the bank's footprint and assessed the branch network and support functions to determine the potential success of the launch.

Results: The bank is currently reviewing BenchMark's analyses and recommendations in support of this important strategic decision.